ADEQUATE FERTILIZATION WILL PAY OFF

Blacksburg, Va.- "Adequate fertilization will pay Virginia farmers handsome dividends in terms of quality pastures," reports J. F. Shoulders, Associate Extension Agronomist, Virginia Polytechnic Institute.

"Almost every farmer has done something to improve at least a portion of the pasture on his farm," he said. "The most basic and universal practice used in Virginia has been the application of lime and fertilizer. The first essential in pasture improvement is to first meet and then maintain the soil's need for lime. The amount of lime to apply can be easily determined by soil test. In terms of the soil test, use enough lime to maintain a pH of between 6.0 and 6.5.

"After the lime requirement has been taken care of, the next essential practice in establishing or in maintaining desirable pasture grasses and legumes is adequate plant food for vigorous growth of these plants. Recently I visited several pasture fertility demonstrations. In each demonstration adequate fertilizer had been applied since the beginning of the demonstration. Some of the demonstrations were seven years old, and had been subject to the severe droughts of 1953 and 1954, but except where the demonstration had been overgrazed continuously, there was a vigorous stand of desirable grasses and legumes.

"Many of the demonstrations included an unfertilized area. Plant growth in the unfertilized areas ranged from practically nothing to broomsedge, crab grass and other weeds, and in a few instances a weak stand of clover and grass.

"All of the demonstrations clearly indicated the necessity of adequate fertilization, but showed that proper grazing management, to maintain the desirable pasture mixtures, must be followed along with adequate fertilization for highest returns from the pasture.

"The most practical time for dressing pasture will soon be here. Now is the time to prepare for it. Take soil samples from your pasture fields right away so that you will know the amount of lime and lime you will need to apply. If you have not already done so, now is the time to get up a regular topdressing program for your pasture. It will pay off in higher yields and longer lived stands."

We'll bet you didn't know

That among the new things in Appomattox is an ELECTRONIC SECRETARY.

The first one in Appomattox has just been installed in the law office of Mr. Frank McCann.

"WHAT IS IT?" It is an electronic device that will answer a telephone automatically while the subscriber is away from his business place or home. It will answer up to 240 times during an absence, give the caller a message, ask him, or her, to leave a message or telephone number, and complete the call with an ending message and a pleasant "Good-bye."

Since we believe there will be some folks who would like to hear, and maybe see, this new Electronic Secretary, we have made arrangements with Mr. McCann to "put her on the line," if you will ask him to. Of course, if he isn't in "she" will answer you anyway.

If you would like to know more about it, give the Electronic Secretary your name and telephone number and ask to have someone with the Telephone Company call on you with more information. For the next two weeks Mr. McCann, telephone number 4081, will be glad to show you the machine and let you listen to it. After that, the Electronic Secretary will be working strictly for Mr. McCann. So if you are interested — or just curious — dial 4081 within the next two weeks, leave a message, then if you like, go up to Mr. McCann's office and listen to your voice.

NATIONAL LETTER WRITING WEEK

National Letter Writing Week will again be celebrated in Gladstone, Va., during the week October 7 to 13, Postmaster S. N. Thornhill announced today.

Commenting on the significance of National Letter Writing Week, Mr. Thornhill pointed out that each year since 1938 this event has been observed as a reminder of the real meaning of a personal letter.

Emphasizing the traditional sanctity of the letter mail, Mr. Thornhill reminded the Gladstone residents that one of the basic American freedoms is the uncensored transmission of their first class mail. It is a most valuable possession of the citizens of a free country.

"We all know the human importance of letter writing," Mr. Thornhill stated, "the way in which it holds scattered families together, of giving comfort and love and news to all the people of the land. But value is immeasurably greater than that. Its implications are almost infinite."

Homemakers Items

To give new zip to plain vegetables such as turnips, broccoli, kohlrabi and brussel sprouts, try a mustard and butter sauce, suggest VPI nutritionists. Use two tablespoons prepared mustard to four tablespoons melted butter.

When using paraffin to seal home made jam or jelly, remember to apply a second coat of paraffin before storing. Wait until the first coat is thoroughly cool, then pour a tablespoon of melted paraffin around the edge of each glass while turning the glass slowly. If by chance the jelly was not entirely covered with the first coating of wax, it will be safely covered by the second.

Garments made of fabrics that call for "drip drying" should be laundered carefully, advise clothing specialists at VPI. When hanging these garments on the line to dry, lift them from the rinse water carefully and hang smoothly, without wringing, twisting, or squeezing. Smoothing out the seam line with your fingers helps eliminate extra pressing.

To prepare fresh coconut easily, make a small hole in the coconut and drain out juice. Place the drained cocoanut in a 350° oven until it starts to crack — about 15 minutes. Tap all over with hammer to loosen shell. Remove shell, peel with vegetable peeler and grate, or grind, as desired.

Cut leftover pastry in small shapes, sprinkle with cheese, carroway seed, chopped chives, or parsley, and bake as usual. These make a delicious accompaniment for salad, soup, or snacks.
